After which, our teachers reminded us about the School Rules and Regulations we are obliged to follow. After the orientation, we went to our respective rooms and our teacher advisers reiterated the classroom rules and regulations and promised to obey those rules. We had fun in sharing our experiences during our summer vacation. At the end of the day, we had a blast and starting the school year with good vibes means having a great and enjoyable S.Y. 2023-2024.

Journey of Pedagogical Growth: A Formal Reflection on Teaching Practices and Continuous Professional Development

MS. KRISMALYN SUMILIG (Grade 5 Adviser)

“Embarking on the journey as a new teacher in a Christian private elementary school is a profound experience filled with a tapestry of expectations, hopes, and aspirations”. This unique professional undertaking not only involves shaping young minds academically but also carries the responsibility of nurturing young souls within the framework of Christian principles. As I step into this sacred space of education, my expectations intertwine with the ethos of faith, community, and academic excellence.

One of my foremost expectations is the anticipation of spiritual growth. In joining a Christian private elementary school, I envision not only imparting knowledge but also experiencing personal and spiritual development. The school's commitment to fostering an environment where faith is woven into the fabric of education provides a unique opportunity for me to deepen my own connection with spirituality.

“My journey as a new teacher over the past five months has been a transformative and enriching experience”. The anticipation of spiritual growth, both for my students and myself, has been realized as I witnessed the deepening of our collective connection with faith. Building on the expectation of a close-knit community, the past five months have seen the development of strong bonds among colleagues, parents, and students. The collaborative spirit has not only enhanced the learning experience but has also created a sense of belonging that extends beyond the confines of the classroom.

Navigating the dual responsibility of imparting academic excellence and Christian principles has presented challenges, yet these challenges have become invaluable opportunities for personal and professional growth. The ability to adapt, resilience in the face of challenges, and a reliance on faith have been crucial elements in overcoming obstacles and enriching the overall teaching experience.

In aspiring to be a positive role model, the initial months have provided numerous occasions to exemplify Christian virtues such as love, compassion, and integrity.

These virtues have not only been integrated into my teaching style but have also become a source of inspiration for students, creating an atmosphere of trust and respect within the classroom.

As I reflect on the professional development journey during these early months, it is evident that the commitment to continuous growth aligns seamlessly with the principles of faith-based education. “Embracing this mindset of lifelong learning has not only enhanced my teaching skills but has also contributed to the dynamic and evolving nature of the educational environment”.

All in all, the first five months as a new teacher have been marked by spiritual enrichment, values-driven collaboration, and a commitment to continuous growth.

The challenges encountered have been transformative, solidifying my dedication to nurturing not only the academic but also the spiritual and moral development of my students. The journey is unfolding, and I eagerly anticipate the continued growth and learning that lie ahead.

MS. ALTAIRE MONTALBAN (Grade 1 Adviser)

I am overwhelmed with a mix of emotions, experiences and personal growth. This journey has been challenging, yet very rewarding. As a new teacher myself, I would like to share the valuable lessons I have learned, the obstacles I have faced, and the achievements I have celebrated during this transformative year.

My first seven months have been challenging and exhilarating in equal measure. And, again, as a new teacher, I must admit I often fit the stereotypes: I’m slightly naïve, overly optimistic and prone to overthinking each lesson because everything remains new and novel.

The relationships I have built with my students, the moments of growth and learning, and the joy of witnessing their progress. This first year has laid a strong foundation and I am excited to see what the future holds in my journey as a teacher.

From day one, I quickly realized that the ability to adapt is very important in the teaching profession and also one of the most significant is building relationships with students. When I first stepped into the classroom, I was observing Teacher Irene’s class. I was filled with a mix of excitement and nervousness. The responsibility of shaping young minds was both thrilling and intimidating. “I soon realized that teaching is not just about imparting knowledge but also about connecting with each student on a personal level”.

It hasn't been smooth sailing all the way. One of the biggest obstacles I faces was classroom management. Balancing discipline with positive learning environment proved to be a constant challenge. There were days when I felt overwhelmed and question my abilities as a teacher but I soon understand that these moments of self- doubt were part of the learning process.

“The Iloilo International Christian Mission school prioritizes to teach children not only giving them the tools they need to become successful in life, but also to become the next generation to make an impact on the world”. Having the opportunity to teach in this institution help me perceive and include being able to live out the Christian faith, as well as teach young students in a Christian environment. Throughout this experience, I have also witnessed the power of collaboration and support from my fellow teachers. From sharing resources and lesson ideas to providing emotional support, my colleagues have become a source of inspiration and motivation. I am grateful for the friendships I have formed and the mentorship I have received, which have made this journey less daunting and more fulfilling. As I wrap up my first year in school, I am filled with a sense of gratitude. Despite the obstacles and challenges, I have found my passion in teaching.
